SKFR vs SKSD Slap-Down Coming Soon!

Word has "Apparently Leaked Out" that SKFR will make its 2nd try to pass a levy this August. A source told the district, and then the district promptly told Board Chair Wilson so he could then threaten the SKFR Fire Chief to not conflict the school district's November bond plan. Of course all of this information found its way to the entire SK School Board yet no votes were taken, no permission granted to Board Chair Wilson.

Board Chair Wilson will undoubtedly try to 'browbeat' SKFR in efforts to pressure him to run their levy at a date that won't sink SKSD's massive Two Hundred Seventy One Million dollar bond this November. The SKSD Board Pres. just arbitrarily picked November because he just wants to "Git er Done" quick, as he does with all matters of the board and district. After all, he is only getting $50 or so dollars a meeting so why spend time and study the problems to find the best solutions?

Nope, the 'git er don e quick' method is still not working for Mr. Wilson and it continues to adversely affect the board business. A pity that his all-powerful PhD doesn't qualify him to do the numbers or to construct a sound financial plan to keep Uss SKSD from sinking. So "just forget about it" as to what might be best for the kids. It will always be "Unions First" the unions come first and Wilson will always remain "beholden" to them for his seat.

And though he does have the "tallest" name placard of all board directors, this doesn't mean what he thinks is the best plan for the district and the kids. His plan remains to just hurry up and end these meetings with as little discussion as possible.

Time will tell how this all comes out, as we now await the big smack down between SKSD and SKFR. Who goes first will be the one who wins the prize! Who gets their request to the public first will prove who the big dog really is between these two "taxing giants". The foregone conclusion is that there is only room for one so don't worry about stepping on the proverbial neck of your tax adversary.

Not even SKSD Board Director Berg with his super charged Roberts Rules of Order and Parliamentary juju can save the day. Will Berg be telling the SKFR Chief that he is breaking school board laws? We he tell the Chief he is in violation of the school boards rules and procedures, that he must follow Roberts Rule of Order.

Perhaps the two newest board directors can help us. Or will it be the be the dog walking director who will walk her dog to impress the school kids and tell the Fire Chief that his levy going first will adversely affect the kids, who then consequently require additional social and emotional counseling.

Perhaps the other newest director, the nostalgic one sharing his tales of an entire career as an elementary school principal will tell the Chief that all his family members who work for the district will also be adversely impacted.

Last but not forgotten is the director who Wilson demanded resign immediately from the school board. Why? Because he talks to the press and tells the community what is wrong, what needs to be done to save the school district? He is the only director who makes efforts to educate the community and the district on fiscal and management matters. But as usual, at the end of the day, it is the unions who run the show at SKSD. The unions have never seen an excessive pay raise or generous perk they could ever pass up.

And the drama and intrigue just keeps on giving at SKSD.
