BERG

THE COWARD OF SKSD BOARD

We requested to see the information that a candidate for public office is required to keep regarding their campaign finances from John R Berg, a candidate for SKSD School Board.

It was a simple request but Mr. Berg was so scared that he needed it to be in a public place and with his “witnesses” for protection. Is this how a candidate for office should act- afraid to meet his constituents in public?

As it turned out, Mr. Berg brought two of his grandkids to protect him. Seriously, involving your grandkids in something they know nothing about to be shields against adult questions regarding your business transactions. They probably knew nothing about it and what kind of person involves kids in their adult business.

Mr. Berg is known as an email and internet coward. He gets pleasure from putting people down and insulting them through email when he knows he is safe. When we met, he was as scared as he could be when questioned about his behavior and finances. He was so scared, he couldn't answer or defend one comment he made on his website about others. His eyes were as big as saucers as we questioned him about how he spread nothing but gossip, lies, and things he cannot defend.

When asked to defend his remarks he made on his website about others and to look them in the eye and defend his remarks, he looked away and began to shake. It is obvious he is afraid to say things in public when confronted with a real person that he professes are “the truth” in his caustic and illegal email site.

He became more nervous so he faked the “I am being threatened” routine and asked his grandson to join us. It was obvious his grandson was uncomfortable with the comments regarding his grandfather. He probably has no idea what his grandfather does at night or what he writes about other people. Of course, he had to defend his grandfather but lacked the conviction to say anything intelligent. His granddaughter was total oblivious of why she was there and had absolutely no knowledge that her grandfather was writing the things he does about people. They both have no idea how he acts at night and then professes to be a Christian and moral member of his church in front of them.

What a disappointment to find out that he is really an arrogant coward and very afraid when confronted as to what he writes. He has the integrity of a snake and has been kicked out of almost every organization he has been in and no other organization wants to be close to a coward like him.

He couldn't figure out that doing what was requested by email would have been what others much smarter than him do.

So, this is your current board member; a coward who hides behind his computer to insult people and is so afraid to back up what he says in public that he has his grandkids go with him to protect him. Does he not have a single adult who will be seen with him to go out in public? Probably not as no one wants to be connected to him.
